

Accreditation - Students File Lawsuit Against University

written by Richard Leslie | May 26, 2016

Universities and colleges throughout the country, and programs within these institutions, seek accreditation or other approval from accrediting or like agencies for multiple purposes, but primarily to establish the bona fides of the institution or program in the milieu that they operate within. CACREP - the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs - is an accrediting agency that evaluates professional preparation programs within institutions of higher learning, such as school counselor master's programs leading to state licensure as a professional counselor.
