

Speaking the Language of Your Occupational Therapy Clients

written by CPH Insurance | June 16, 2016

All of us want to connect on a meaningful level but for the occupational therapist that connection transcends to a different form. An occupational therapist can't merely just connect; they must empathize with their clients and commit to understanding what it is they need to achieve.